A SCHOONER LOST IN GULF HURRICANE

The Palmer Missing and Believed to be a Wreck.

Resorts On the Mississippi Coasts Suffered Hundred Thousand Dollar Damage.

THE HENRY LEWIS TOTAL LOSS.

New Orleans, La., Oct. 12.—The three-masted schooner Palmer which sailed from Gulfport, Miss., Friday with a cargo of lumber for Cuban ports, is believed to have gone down in the hurricane which raged in the Gulf of Mexico with great fury. A large quantity of wreckage, was found near Dog Keys, east of Ship Island, which is believed to be from the ill-fated Palmer.

Reports from the Louisiana and Mississippi coasts show that great damage was done by the storm. A careful estimate of the financial losses sustained at the pleasure resorts on Mississippi Sound places the damage at $105,000. Bay St. Louis and Waveland, Miss., suffered the heaviest, the losses at those two places alone being $80,000. The entire Mississippi coast from Pearl river to Passagoula is strewn with wreckage.

The reports from the Louisiana coast are meager on account of the prostration of the wires and the damage sustained by the wireless telegraph station at the mouth of the river, but enough is known to indicate that the financial loss in that region will foot up $150,000.

The schooner Harry W. Lewis, laden with lumber, from Mobile, Ala., for Cuban ports, was driven ashore twelve miles east of the mouth of the Mississippi river, and is a total loss. The crew reached shore by means of life boats and floating timber.

THEATER PROPRIETOR
Can Keep Out Any One He Chooses to Deny Admittance.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 12.—That a theatre proprietor is a private individual, engaged in a private business, and is under no implied obligation to serve the public, is the opinion of Justice J. Hay Brown, of the supreme court in a decision handed down today.

The case is the suit of Wilbur Horney against Nixon & Zimmerman for damages for an alleged wrong suffered by him and his family in not getting seats for which they held tickets for a theatrical performance in Philadelphia. Justice Brown says: "The proprietor of a theatre is a private individual, engaged in a strictly private business, which, though for the entertainment of the public, is always limited to those whom he may agree to admit to it."

ONE LEGGED NEGRO
LYNCHED IN TODD

Charged With Insulting White Woman and Daughter.

Frank Teavell Denied All Knowledge of the Crime, But Was Traced by His Wooden Leg.

SHORT SHIRT MADE OF HIM.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 12.—Frank Teavell, colored, was taken from the Elkton, Ky., jail by a mob last night and hanged to a tree a mile from town.

Teavell went to the home of Mrs. Ann Burrus, near Trenton, Saturday night and insulted the woman and her daughter.

He was arrested near Pembroke and lodged in jail, charged with an attempted criminal assault. Teavell's alleged attempt is said to have been made between 12 and 1 o'clock. Mrs. Ann Burrus was with her daughter, Miss Bright Burrus. It is said that the negro went to the house, and asked to be admitted, calling Miss Burrus by her name, and making the most outspoken proposals. Miss Burrus secured a pistol and fired on the negro through the window. He ran out the back way, and she stepped out and fired at him again as he made off, but did not hit him either time. She had known this negro for some time, and says she plainly recognized him in the moonlight.

The marauder was one-legged, and was using a crutch, and neighbors tracked him in this manner. Teavell claimed to be innocent of the attempted crime. He was taken back to Trenton yesterday afternoon for identification, and then lodged in jail at Elkton.

Leavell, or Teavell's body was found about a mile from town today hanging from the limb of a tree. He was about thirty years of age.

It is said that at the time Teavell was found yesterday, he was concealed by three young white men of Pembroke, who hoped to get a reward for him.

When they found that only fifteen dollars was offered they attempted to smuggle the negro to Indiana. Officials at Trenton notified the authorities at Hopkinsville and Leggett was arrested on a train and was brought to Elkton yesterday evening at 5 o'clock and placed in jail.

Last night at 12 o'clock Jailer James Gill was aroused by some one knocking at his door and he was informed that an officer with a prisoner was without. When he opened the door he was seized by two men and about ten men rushed in the room. They were masked and demanded the keys. Upon the jailer refusing they called for dynamite and threatened to blow up the jail. They also threatened to hang Jailer Gill to a limb unless he would produce the keys. Upon receiving the keys the mob, about 150 strong, quietly took Leavell to Sampter's woods and hanged him to the tree limb.

The negroes are alleged to have killed Hatfield and robbed his pockets of $2.00.

Hatfield was playing cards at the saloon in Sandusky Monday and exhibited his money. He was known to have cashed a check for $21.50. However he sent $13 to his family at Mill Shoals, Ill., and spent a little so that he only had a couple of dollars at the time of the murder.

Hatfield's body was found in a small hay barn near the depot at Sandusky. Near was the timber, stained with blood which furnished the tell-tale evidence.

The negroes saw Hatfield's money while he was playing cards. The evidence against them is said to be extremely strong.

No More Harmful Than Any Other Form of Tobacco, Tea or Coffee.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 12.—The feature of yesterday's session of the Mississippi Valley Medical association was the defense of the cigarette by Dr. Fletcher, of Indianapolis, who declared that years of observation and experiment had convinced him that cigarettes were no more harmful than any other form of tobacco, tea or coffee.

Fletcher's treatment of the subject created a sensation among the physicians present and during the discussion which followed several eminent members of the profession agreed with Fletcher that unreasonable prejudice existed against the cigarettes which the contended has been made "scapegoat" in order to cover up some personal vice of the smoker.

MURDER AND MUTINY
ON SHIP BERWIND

Three Negroes Found on Board are Under Arrest.

Captain, Mate and Others Murdered and Their Bodies Were Cast Overboard.

THE NEGROES ARE IN IRONS.

Southport, N. C., Oct. 12.—The Schooner Blanche H. King, Capt. J. W. Taylor, Brunswick, Ga., September 23, for Philadelphia, put in here this afternoon, bringing in irons three negroes, all that remained of the crew of the four-masted schooner Harry A. Berwind. Capt. Rumill from Mobile, September 23, to Philadelphia a captain, mate, cook and an engineer having been murdered in a mutiny at sea and their bodies thrown overboard.

The body of a fourth negro of the crew was found lying on deck where he, too, had evidently been murdered. Capt. Taylor, of the schooner King, sighted the Berwind early this morning about thirty miles off the Cape Fear bar and was attracted to her by the manner in which she was being steered, having several times come very near running down the King. A near approach to the Berwind showed that she had been practically abandoned.

Capt. Taylor and crew boarded the vessel and placed the three negroes in irons, bringing the two vessels off the bar when one of them was towed in by Wilmington tugs which have now gone for the other schooner, a gale prevailing on the outside.

The Berwind being from a territory against which this city is quarantined for yellow fever, the three negroes in irons are held at quarantine until arrangements can be made for the detention by the federal authorities.

PRESIDENT FISH

Offers to Lend Peabody College $10,000 Without Interest.

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 12.—Stuyvesant Fish, president of the Illinois Central railroad, has made a suggestion regarding the recent postponement of the Peabody college endowment which may bring results. In a letter to J. M. Dickinson, general counsel and former resident of Nashville, he says:

"Yesterday's New York papers state, in effect, that the trustees of the Peabody fund have postponed making their donation for Nashville because $250,000 of the $800,000, which was required to be raised locally, has been voted by the state of Tennessee in ten annual payments, and not in cash. It has occurred to me that people interested in Nashville and in the cause of education in the south might be willing to advance the $250,000, to be reimbursed to them, without interest, in ten yearly payments. I know nothing about the matter except what I have seen in the papers, but beg to say that if you shall, on investigation, find that the state really appropriated the money in this way, and the arrangement can be made safely, I would be willing to advance $10,000 toward such fund of $250,000."

NEW SAND DRIER

HAS BEEN PATENTED BY MASTER MECHANIC TURNBULL.

The First of the Plants Will Be Established at Evansville Soon.

Master Mechanic R. J. Turnbull is the latest I. C. man to come out with an invention. The popular master mechanic has come to the front with a new device for drying sand to be used on engines and it has been successfully tested here and will be first installed at Evansville where a new sand house is being built.

The sand drier is simple, and utilizes steam instead of a stove and coke. A series of coiled pipes are set in an inclined box with one side open. The sand is thrown on top of the piping and as the steam running through the pipes heats the sand, it dries and falls between the pipes to the iron lining of the box and then to another box, ready for the engine. All the laborer has to do is to throw the sand onto the pipes and the steam does the rest. As long as the sand is wet, it banks on top of the pipes and will not fall until thoroughly dry. This arrangement will preclude any danger of fire, and will save a great deal in the course of time in fuel. The Paducah sand house is furnished with a stove drier, but it is said the Turnbull drier will be installed shortly.

CONDUCTOR HANSBRO NOT SURE HE WASN'T DUPED.

"I don't mind being a little liberal or charitable, whichever you want to call it," Conductor W. Y. Hansbro of the Fulton-Louisville accommodation run, declared this morning, "but when I think I am being 'worked' I have a tendency to balk. I sort of feel like kicking myself now for what I did this morning."

As the popular conductor delivered these few ideas, he disgustedly watched a smartly dressed middle-aged woman disappear around the corner of the depot. She wore silks and had two children who were also dressed rather smartly. The woman boarded the train at a station between Fulton and Paducah bearing every evidence of prosperity, but when the conductor came around for her fare, he learned she was "short" a little. Her appeals for aid made in a very modest manner failed to bring anyone to her assistance, and the conductor felt duty bound to "cough up" and he himself paid the balance of the fare, rather than put her off the train.

"If I was sure I didn't get 'worked' Conductor Hansbro declared, 'I would feel better, but that woman wears as good clothes as the higher official's wives and I feel somewhat like a man who has been worked and knows it, but can't prove it.'"

CAIRO IS COMING TO HER SENSES NOW

Lifts the Quarantine Effective at Nine Today.

The State Regulations Are Still in Effect But Are Not Rigid and May Soon Be Abandoned.

GOOD NEWS FOR PADUCAH

Cairo, Ill., Oct. 12.—The Cairo board of health in response to the urgent appeals of the citizens of Cairo, yesterday afternoon raised the local quarantine, with the exception of the embargo placed upon all persons coming from infected states.

The order of the board became effective at 9 a. m. Thursday, October 12, 1905.

Regarding the action of the local board of health, Dr. Palmer when seen last night gave out for publication the following statement:

"The raising of the quarantine established by the city of Cairo leaves the state board of health in practically the same position as during the early part of the quarantine. The state quarantine against Mississippi, Louisiana and infected points in the south has never been raised and has been enforced in conjunction with the Cairo regulations. The state quarantine however is directed toward the protection of all of that part of the state lying south of the line of the Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern railway, running from St. Louis to Vincennes.

"Beginning at 9 o'clock this morning the state board of health inspectors will cease demanding Cairo permits of travelers who desire to enter the city, but every train will be inspected and every traveler will be expected to show to the satisfaction of the inspectors his whereabouts during the past ten days. Travelers from Mississippi or Louisiana or from other infected points, who have not been out of infected territory for ten days or over, will be confined in the detention car and sent out of the city on the first train.

"As to the length of time the state regulations will be enforced, or the modifications of the regulations to be made to meet existing conditions, Dr. Palmer declined to say. Last night, Dr. Egan arrived in Cairo from Springfield early this morning and will promptly outline the course to be pursued. If weather conditions justify it, the state quarantine will probably be raised in a short time, but recurrence of warm weather or worse conditions in the south will doubtless lead to the adoption of more stringent measures."

Theatrical Notes

Saturday matinee and night "Hawes' Moving Picture Show."

The famous Wagnerian festival play, which will be seen at The Kentucky on Saturday matinee and night October 21, is a mystic drama based upon one of the popular legends of the Middle Ages and wrought into most attractive literary form by such medieval writers as Chretien de Troyes and Wolfram von Eschenbach. That curious body of mystical romance which grew up between the years of 1170 and 1220, and which is known as the Grail cycle, forms the legendary background of the tale. The "Parsifal" story is but one of the many romances in which the sacred cup that received the blood of the Saviour is pivot about which the action revolves.

This production of "Parsifal" is marked by the employment of many of the Balreuth customs. The commencing time, however, has been modified. It has formerly been the rule to begin the evening performance at 7:30.

ance at 5:30, giving an intermission of two hours for dinner. This intermission is now eliminated and the performance will begin at 7:45 sharp at the night performance, and 1:45 at the matinee. There will be but five to eight minute wait between each act, which is required to set the stupendous scenic display. This time will be devoted to Wagner overtures, and the performance will conclude at 11 o'clock. As at Balreuth the imperative rule of the spectators being in their seats when the curtain rises on the first act will be in force, as on account of the total darkness of the auditorium none can be seated during the action of the play. A ten minute warning before the curtain rises will be given in the lobby entrance by trumpeters who will blow the notes of the Last Supper motif. "Parsifal" will be presented here by a select company of 50 noted players.

With a well-balanced company, Mr. Fred Wycoff pleased a fairly large audience last night in "Uncle Dan!" It is a play of simple folk and every day life, and the pictures are faithfully drawn. "Uncle Dan!" is a character that arouses admiration and sympathy, and Mr. Wycoff does excellent work throughout the four acts of the play. Minnie Church as "Clip," is a clever little woman and the other parts were well cast. Mr. Wycoff, who is not a stranger in Paducah, is the largest part of the show, however, and his "Uncle Dan!" is a delight.

Advertising car No. 2 of the Ringling Brothers circus arrived last night and was sidetracked at the passenger depot. The bill posters are at work putting on the second posters. There will probably be one or two more cars to come before the circus arrives and the town will never be better billed for any attraction than this circus when the advertising men get through with their work.

The Tibetan comic opera, "The Forbidden Land" is again coming this way—an announcement which local theatre goers will hear with satisfaction. Since its presentation here last season it has received the praise of the public of New York City, where its novelty and brightness and its brilliant comedy were a surprise to those Gotham critics who have been saying that nothing in the way of novelty can come out of the west. The company this season is practically the same as seen here with the exception of a few changes in the cast which have greatly improved the organization. It will be here Oct. 31.

Wallace, Monroe, representing Louis James who is here at The Kentucky next Thursday night, Oct. 19th, in "Virginia," tells the following tale upon a well known actor, who, for various reasons, will be nameless. Mr. Monroe is, at the Palmer today, and says that at a certain well-known theatrical club in New York recently he went to his letter box and upon opening several letters found one from a tailor dunning him in good set terms the creditor for his constant failure to meet his obligations, and threats of a legal attachment unless the bill was paid immediately; upon Mr. Monroe more closely scrutinizing the superscription he discovered he had opened by mistake a letter belonging to another member whose name was similar to his. Writing across the face of it, "opened by mistake" he deposited it in the proper receptacle, and sauntering over to a big arm chair commenced to peruse the latest magazines. Hardly was he seated when the actor in question entered, secured his mail, and not observing that the massive in question had already been opened, tore off the end of the envelope and commenced reading it. At this moment Monroe looked up, met his gaze, but before he had time to apologize for his error, the aforesaid matinee idol began tearing the letter up into little pieces and with a heartless sigh said:

"Monroe, old chap, another of these silly little girls—dear me."

Mr. Monroe is well known here. He is a brother-in-law of Mrs. Brune, and when here last had out "Forbidden Land," which comes again soon. This is the show that was behind a wreck and the curtain did not rise until 10 p. m.

In the Louis James company, which Mr. Monroe now has out, is James Young who married Miss Flora May Clark, of Paducah.

Daily Thought.

"The true value of life consists not in what a man has, but in what a man is."

THE INSURANCE QUESTION.

The insurance magnates seem to be inconsistent. President McCurdy, of the Mutual Life, does not consider life insurance intended for investment, but as a protection. If he wanted to sell you a policy, however, he would probably take the opposite position, claiming that insurance was a paying investment whichever way you look at it.

President McCurdy advanced the theory that the Mutual company and all other life insurance companies of the same character are primarily philanthropic enterprises. The opinion prevailing that they are money-making institutions, even for the policy holders, is erroneous. He regards himself as charged primarily with the duty of extending insurance, although it may be extended at the expense of the present policy holders. Mr. McCurdy based his defense of the Mutual's large expenses in obtaining new business in part on this theory.

"Life insurance," he said, "is an obligation every man ought to understand because he is participating in a movement for the benefit of humanity. I have always had that opinion. The purpose of the Mutual life is not money-making or declaring dividends to those who pay premiums. It was organized as a great beneficent and missionary institution. Its purpose was to extend the benefits of life insurance, and its object was not that of declaring dividends, which could be spent on cigars or playing billiards. Its purpose was not to pay 1 cent during the lifetime of the insured, but at death. It was based on the conviction that every man ought to carry life insurance for the benefit of his family and the community. It was started in the spirit of pure philanthropy and as a missionary enterprise. That was its object. I have heard a great deal of criticism on the ground that a life insurance company should not be an eleemosynary concern. Now, it is my belief that a life insurance company should be an eleemosynary concern to a great degree."

The agitation and revelations in the business, however, are doing a world of good. The St. Louis Globe Democrat says of the situation:

"That the life insurance disclosures of the present year will eventually result in putting the business on a better basis for policy holders is practically certain. Certain abuses have been shown, proving that the business can be conducted on terms more favorable for the hundreds of thousands of persons whose lives are insured, and it is reasonable to believe that such will be the outcome. Life insurance itself is not in bad odor. It towers now, as always, as one of the most beneficent institutions of mankind. Certain details of management have been found to be unsatisfactory, and the remedies will be applied beyond doubt. The profits of life insurance are larger than has been supposed, and in some cases have been misapplied. But in the end policy holders will get their due."

"Various modifications are suggested in making insurance investments and carrying on the business generally. Some of the ideas may be sound, but the first thing to be done is to secure new officials where any violation of duty is discovered, or where there is any form of extravagance that is turned to individual advantage. Salaries, and perhaps some other things, have been on too magnificent a scale. A policy of intelligent economy, full publicity and rigid honesty will clear away existing troubles. When that is accomplished life insurance will be to the world one of its surest boons, and to society a safeguard of the highest value. The good it has done in the past is inestimable, and its future will reach new levels of usefulness."

WHY?

Why this sudden hostility on part of Mayor Yeiser and the administration towards the old telephone company? Why did the mayor wait twelve or fifteen years to become so worked up because the company had no franchise? Why did he sit in his office for three weeks recently and watch the company tear up the streets opposite the city hall without saying a word, and when it had finished, make a grand stand play in a public board meeting and accuse the company of "defying" the city, when as a matter of fact, the company had a permit to tear up the street and alley, and if the city officials who issued the permit had no authority to do so, the company had no means of knowing it?

Why try to "oust," harass or rob a public enterprise that 3,000 people are paying for telephone service and depend on for telephone service? Have these 3,000 people no rights or protection in the matter of choosing and using a thing so essential and important as the telephone has become in Paducah?

W. R. Hearst has accepted the nomination for mayor of New York on the municipal ownership league ticket. He is probably about as near the majority as he was the presidency. New York may be a great many things that are bad, but it is probably not yet ready to take on Hearst.

The Democrats have nominated a coroner, but they have not elected one yet. Trickery and machine methods have yielded their fruit but the voters are still to be heard from. If reports are true there will be some

NEW TIMEKEEPER

FOR THE PLANING MILL DEPARTMENT OF THE I. C.

A Number of Minor Matters of General Interest Are Reported Today.

Mr. S. J. Pollock, who was time keeper for the I. C. in the wood-working department four years ago, returned from St. Louis yesterday and will accept the position of time keeper in the local planing mill to succeed Mr. J. C. Alexander, resigned. The change will be made today. Mr. Alexander came here from Calvert City several weeks ago to succeed Mr. John Theobald, who was promoted to time keeper in the master mechanic's office.

Mr. James Hofflich, of the local I. C. roundhouse, has returned to work after a several days' session. His baby has been very ill but is now entirely recovered.

Steam heat was this morning furnished the office of Master Car Builder T. M. Baughan. This was the first office in the wood-working department to be connected up with steam heat which will be used in the planing mill instead of stoves.

Engineer Wm. Curley, of the Paducah and Louisville "high ball" runs off duty on account of illness.

One sure sign of cold weather, although the general public may not show signs of feeling it, was noticed this morning in the local I. C. shops yards. Large fires were built in the jacking track territory for the comfort of the car repairers in this department. During the winter fires are maintained for the car "monkeys" who have to work out in the cold and are subjected to the bitterest weather.

Engine No. 1196 which stripped her driving rods at Rockport, Ky., several days ago and killed a fireman, was run out of the shops this morning to be sent to the Louisville district again. She had an overhauling here.

Mr. Fred Flannigan, the well known I. C. machinist, has returned from Omaha, Neb., after visiting his parents.

The local railroad employees have received notice of a cut to an eight-hour work day in the Missouri Pacific and Iron Mountain shops at Little Rock.

Master Mechanic R. J. Turnbull went to Louisville at noon on business.

Traveling Engineer F. J. Feeney went up the division at noon on business.

A VIRGINIA MAN ENTERS HIS STRING

Many Thoroughbreds are Expected to Horse Show.

Everybody Working Hard and Harmoniously to Make the Affair a Success.

REHEARSALS ARE A SUCCESS.

Encouraging reports continue to come in to the secretary of the horse show, which takes place next week. Many entries have already been made. The latest being a man from Virginia who has entered his string of five thoroughbreds. There will be a number of fine horses here from a distance and the directors are feeling jubilant over the prospects.

Messrs. Ben Weille and R. B. Phillips, the originators of the show, are working day and night to make the affair a success. They are having everything arranged at the baseball park and this morning had several loads of sawdust hauled out which was given them by the Langstaff-Orme Manufacturing company. A large number of prizes have been donated by local merchants and they are on display in the show windows on Broadway. Some of them are very handsome.

Miss Elizabeth Sinnott has received answers to a large number of ladies invited to be sponsors from various cities and many of them are responding favorably. There will be many handsome society ladies present and local society will shine its brightest, a large number of entertainments being planned.

More boxes will be built at once in the park grandstand and they will be sold at once. Persons desiring them should apply to Ben Frank, corresponding secretary.

The committee in charge of the parade is daily at work and will make it one of the grandest spectacles in the way of a pageant that was ever seen in Paducah.

Today Mr. D. A. Meacham is in Mayfield billing those cities.

The musical drill, which rehearsed last night, was a success. The participants have the drill down near to perfection. It is under the direction of Dr. Victor Voris.

Dr. J. B. Garber last night received from Watseka, Ill., a string of German coach horses to be exhibited at the horse show. These are the first exhibits to arrive for the big affair next week.

A telegram from Owensboro this morning was to the effect that several fine horses would be brought here from that place and Lexington. The "blue grass" region of Kentucky and where some of the best blooded horses in the country are raised. Some of these animals were on exhibition at the state fair and took first prizes.

Col. Gus Coulter who has a stock farm in Graves county, has entered some very fine stock and while here yesterday stated he would exhibit every fine horse he had.

To show the interest being taken in the horse show Andy Watkins, the colored undertaker, this morning donated $5 to the directors and offered any assistance that he could afford. He was assured that the offer was appreciated and that there would be good seats for all colored people who desired to attend. The bleachers will be reserved for them.

BEAUTY SHOW

Attracts a Large Crowd to Madison Square Garden.

New York, Oct. 12.—The beauty mad populace, all eager to worship, with Bernard MacFadden, the human form as nearly divine as the police allow, packed Madison Square garden to see the start of the beauty show. Never in the days of the Olympic games did the human form call forth such unsolicited enthusiasm. MacFadden threw out his chest and said that it marked an era in the physical emancipation of the American people.

The five contestants in the first heat of the 50-yard dash for girls took to the scratch. Most of them wore bloomers, with flowing ties. One wore a running suit like a man's only she wore stockings. The cops managed to scrape an alley in the crowd.

The girls got away and ran like blazes. The winner was the girl in the running suit. The contestant from California was in the second heat. She wore a white bathing suit and her bronze hair was done up in a turban fashion, with a diamond pin in front. She was a heavy loser.

THROWN BY HORSE

R. G. HARTLEY MEETS WITH SERIOUS IF NOT FATAL MISADVENTURE.

Was Riding Ten Miles From the City When His Horse Became Unruly.

Mr. R. G. Hartley, the son of Dr. H. B. Hartley, who resides about 10 miles out from Paducah on the Bluff road, was thrown from a horse this morning about 11 o'clock and seriously if not fatally injured.

The young man had started horseback when his horse became frightened and unruly. He was thrown off, and in alighting, struck a tree. His left ankle was badly fractured, his left hip dislocated and his skull probably fractured.

The young man's sister-in-law and brother witnessed the accident, which happened about a quarter of a mile from the residence, and ran to the young man's assistance, finding him in an unconscious condition.

He was picked up, carried home, and his father summoned to dress the injuries. Drs. Frank Boyd of this city, and Dr. L. Edwin Young, of the county, were called in consultation. The injuries are very serious and the young man suffered a great deal from concussion today.

Time for Toppers

"Overcoats" is not the term for these jaunty garments. It gives no suggestion of their snappy style and elegance. We have them in all the favored fabrics and modish cuts. Our top coat are made by expert tailors. Even the man who sews on buttons is an expert in his line; the one who shapes the collar another expert—ALL EXPERTS.

And the long coats. Many men prefer the long, gracefully-draped lines of the Cravanette, with its air of quiet goods taste. We mean "CRAVANETTE," too, for we are exclusive agents in Paducah for the original Priestley's Cravanette.

Girl Promptly Acquitted.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Oct. 12.—The charge of grand larceny against Madeline McIntire, who was arrested in Paris, Ky., upon a warrant sworn out by W. A. Snider, charging the girl with stealing a diamond ring from him, was dismissed upon motion of the prosecuting attorney. The girl came here with the Parker Carnival company and was featured in the bills as "Debona," the girl who looped the loop. Friday she went to Paris. When she left she is said to have taken with her a ring belonging to Snider, who was also an attaché of the Parker Carnival company. From the evidence introduced the girl had no felonious intention in keeping the ring, and as she restored it to Mr. Snider, the case was dropped.

LECTURE ON FORREST.

May Be Delivered in Paducah by Hon. Tully Brown.

A committee from the James Walbert camp, United Confederate Veterans, headed by Dr. D. G. Murrell, has written to the Hon. Tully Brown, a renowned orator of Nashville, Tenn., asking him on what terms he will come to Paducah and deliver a lecture on Gen. Forrest, the noted Confederate leader. Recently Mr. Brown delivered a lecture on Gen. Forrest in Nashville and made a great hit.

During the war Mr. Brown was with Gen. Forrest and he is well acquainted with the distinguished leader's life. As Forrest operated extensively in and around Paducah his lecture would be of great interest and Dr. Murrell is confident that a good sum could be netted out of the lecture.

If he is secured the money made will go toward the Confederate monument proposed for erection on the lot of the Carnegie library or some other prominent location. Dr. Murrell is expecting an answer in a few days, and if Mr. Brown will come for a reasonable amount he will contract with him for the lecture.

Just a Few of Our Many Good Things

If you have called, you are already familiar with the sterling values which have attracted Paducah housewives to our store in such large numbers during the GREAT CLOSING OUT-AT-COST SALE. But we are by no means sold out. Just to show you what values we are offering in American made china come in and see the handsomely decorated 35c salad bowl you can get for 18c. We have lots of these now, as our entire stock of them has been transferred from the wholesale to the retail department. But they won't last long at these prices. So come in early. Some cake plates in the same class which have always sold for 50c, now 33c.

We were unable to cancel the orders for many of the rare and beautiful pieces of hand painted French, Japanese and Austrian china (in sets and open stock, too,) which were especially imported for the benefit of discriminating buyers at Christmas time. As there are no exceptions to our sell-at-cost rule, you have an opportunity to buy for absolutely what we paid the manufacturer. And they are exclusive patterns, too. If you buy a set, no one in Paducah or anywhere else will have one just like it. That's always a pleasant feeling to the woman who loves beautiful china. And remember that it's not "too expensive to use." Come in and see it, if only for the pleasure it will give you.

Jokesmith "Jerum" K. "Jerum" Throws Several at Newspaper Man in New York

New York, Oct. 12.—Jerome K. Jerome (please pronounce Jerum-K-Jerum), jokesmith, arrived in America for the first time in his life Sunday and was at once put to torture by reporters. He came on the steamship St. Louis from Southampton. He is going to lecture in this country for six months.

Mr. "Jerum" wore the florid face, which he always wears; a full blue necktie, which he wears only at times, a soft brown hat, no mustache, a gray tweed suit, spectacles, and a merry twinkle in his brown eyes.

"And how do you like America?" asked some bright person when the author of "The Idle Thoughts of an Idle Fellow" at last was at leisure at the pier.

"Hm! They asked me that at Southampton," answered the author, adjusting his spectacles. "I can say at present I admire your tall buildings."

"Mr. Jerome," asked another interviewer, confidentially, "give us the definition of a joke, will you?"

"Hm! The definition of a joke? I've been trying to do that for twenty years. I can't. Jokes come from heaven, you know."

"English jokes?" was asked.

"Yes, all jokes. Jokes belong to no country. They are bounded by no locality. I pronounce my name 'Jerum.'"

"O, 'Jerum.' I beg your pardon, sir."

"Yes, that's the way we've pronounced our name for more than a hundred years. I claim no responsibility for it, though. That's the way my father pronounced it."

"Your first name is the same as your last, isn't it?" remarked some one else.

"Yes. I claim no responsibility for that, either. My father gave it to me, and I didn't argue the point at the time."

"Can you crack a joke for us now?"

"Hm! Well, I might after a five-mile walk in the country. I advise our American humorists to try long walks in the country."

"It has been said that an Englishman can't appreciate an American joke, Mr. Jerome. How about that?"

"Hm! Well, I think any average intelligent Englishman can appreciate an American joke. He ought to, for we borrow a good many of our jokes from you."

"How about American appreciation of British humor?"

"I expect to find that out. If my American audiences treat me as well as the one I read to aboard the St. Louis last night I shall feel much flattered. They seemed to anticipate any quip I attempted to make before I got to the last word. I was——"

"Do your English audiences laugh before or after you get the last word?" interrupted one of his questioners impatiently. Just then somebody else interposed with:

"Don't you find it hard to find new jokes?"

Jerome's face now was assuming an expression of infinite patience and sadness, but he gave this answer:

"Well, I tell you. As somebody has said, there are just thirteen good jokes, and probably every one of these has thirteen variations. My plan is, use these thirteen times thirteen jokes for thirty-two years, then start all over again. Thirty-two years, I think, is a generation, don't you know?"

The last torture at the colloquial inquisition was this: "What do you think of the practicability of a law making arrest the penalty for any one caught stealing jokes?"

"There are too many thieves," was the indignant answer.

POLICE COURT

JUDGE SANDERS HAD A LARGE DOCKET TODAY.

Police Judge D. L. Sanders opened his docket this morning, scanned the entries a few moments, and with a glance at the well filled prisoners' bench called the case against Annie Brewer, a yellow negress of about 16 years of age.

"Annie Brewer, charged with petty larceny," the judge called. Annie stood up. She had a rather puzzled look on her face and seemed at loss to know what to say.

"Well, what have you to say about the matter?" Judge Sanders continued, seeing the girl hesitating. "I'm not guilty, Judge," the girl curtly returned, her self control coming back suddenly. "It wasn't no petty larceny, enny way; twas a cloak I wore off."

There was a general laugh throughout the spectators at the girl's remark, and it was apparent that she was fresh from the woods and unacquainted with courts and their ways.

She explained that she had simply worn away a cloak belonging to Hannah Rowland, colored, to get the latter some morphine, or "dope" of some kind, and had returned it. The case was left open.

Attorney Charles K. Wheeler, for the East Tennessee Telephone Co. and Solicitor James Campbell, for the city, argued the breach of ordinance case against the telephone company and Judge Sanders reserved his opinion until tomorrow. The company is charged with tearing up the streets without a permit.

Other cases were:

Andrew Williams, Will Pryor, Nat Brison, Ben Satterfield, Lubie Washington, Sam Barker, Freeman Tortan and Ed Elliott, colored, were fined $20 and costs each for gaming; Jim Hill, colored, breach of the peace, dismissed; English Pitman, colored, malicious cutting, continued; Jim Casey, colored, malicious shooting, continued; Wallace Perry, breach of the peace, $5 and costs.

OTHER MATTERS ACTED UPON.

President G. M. Ingram, of the Southern Bitulthie company, did not arrive yesterday from Nashville, and as a result the board of public works at its regular meeting yesterday afternoon did not take up the matter of reconstructing Jefferson street and Kentucky avenue.

It was decided that if Mr. Ingram comes today or soon, the board will hold a called session to meet him.

The board ordered City Engineer L. A. Washington to issue no more permits to the East Tennessee Telephone company to tear up the streets until the difference between it and the city, and the board's authority to issue permits, are settled.

The Woodward avenue improvement was ordered held up. The contract has been awarded to Ed Baker, but it has been ascertained that the ordinance for the improvement calls only for "grading," "graveling" having been left out entirely.

City Engineer L. A. Washington reported that the Third street reconstruction work will probably be finished by the first part of next week.

The plans for the culvert to take the place of the bridge on Caldwell street near the L. C. depot were adopted and bids for the work will be advertised for at once.

Street Inspector Alonzo Elliott was empowered to have hauled at the city's expense dirt from the Third street excavations over to Fourth near Husbands, where a city fill is being built.

The street inspector reported that he was having the old carbing from Kentucky avenue hauled to the library grounds and stored.

The request of Mill Ingram for an extension of the sanitary sewerage 125 feet from Fifth and Trimble, was referred to the city engineer.

Contractor Bridges was reported making progress on Kentucky avenue and Jefferson streets, and excavations are being made for the curbing. He hopes to have the streets completed to Fifth and Fourth streets where his contract ends before extreme cold weather.

MRS. CATT'S HUSBAND.

Gives Body to Medical College—His Wife Consents.

New York, Oct. 12.—After the funeral of the body of George W. Catt, president of the Atlantic, Gulf and Pacific company, and husband of Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, was turned over to the University and Bellevue medical colleges for dissection. This disposition was directed by his will.

Mr. Catt, who was a civil engineer of national repute and a member of various scientific societies here and abroad, drew up his will in 1897. After discussing the matter with his wife, and frequently expressing his regret that medical colleges seldom had an opportunity to dissect the body of a healthy, intelligent man, he gained her consent to bequeath his body to science.

Mr. Catt's death occurred last Sunday, following an operation for gall stones. It was so unexpected that he had no opportunity to advise Dr. Wayne, his close friend and physician for years, concerning the unusual clause in his will, but on Monday Mrs. Catt talked with the doctor and told him she wanted it carried out to the letter. Dr. Wayne had no difficulty in securing a special permit, which is said to be about the first of the kind on record.

BEFORE GRAND JURY

BANK INSPECTOR GARRETT WAS CALLED AT LOUISVILLE.

The Affairs of the Western Bank to Be Probed by United States Grand Jurors.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 12.—R. D. Garrett, United States bank examiner, who investigated the affairs of the Western National bank, and who ordered its doors closed, has been summoned to appear as a witness before the United States grand jury.

It is presumed that Mr. Garrett will give evidence regarding the failure of the bank. It was known several days ago that Mr. Garrett had visited the United States district attorney and this immediately started a report that he would appear before the grand jury.

Since it became known that Mr. Garrett had been in consultation with District Attorney Hill and that it was probable that he would be summoned before the grand jury, several stories of the bank's affairs have been told. It is said, among other things, that the books of the Western National bank contained an entry of an alleged loan to another, Louisville bank which this bank is said to deny. It is also said that the Western National bank loaned a large sum of money to a Louisville firm on collateral that was inadequate.

Rev. B. C. Horton, Sulphur Springs, Tex., writes, July 19, 1902: "I have used in my family Ballard's Snow Liniment and Horsehound Syrup, and they have proved certainly satisfactory. The liniment is the best we have ever used for headache and pains. The cough syrup has been our doctor for the last eight years."

Raffles, The Amateur Cracksman

By E. W. HORNUNG

THE GIFT OF THE EMPEROR

No. 6 of the Series

Raffles entirely disagreed with me. He shook his head over my conventional view. Human nature was a board of checkers. Why not reconcile oneself to alternate black and white? Why desire to be all one thing or all the other, like our forefathers on the stage or in the old fashioned fiction? For his part he enjoyed himself on all squares of the board and liked the light the better for the shade. My conclusion he considered absurd.

"But you err in good company, Bun. For all the cheap moralists who preach the same twaddle. Old Virgil was the first and worst offender of you all. I back myself to climb out of Avernus any day I like, and sooner or later I shall climb out for good. I suppose I can't very well turn myself into a limited liability company, but I could retire and settle down and live blamelessly ever after. I'm not sure that it couldn't be done on this planet alone."

"Then you don't still think it too remarkable to sell?"

"We might take a fishery and haul it up with snapper fry. It would come after months of ill luck, just as we were going to sell the schooner. My love, it would be the fall of the Pacific!"

"Well, we've got to get it first. Is this Von What's-his-name a formidable customer?"

"More so than he looks, and he has the cheek of the devil!"

As he spoke a white drill skirt fluttered past the open stateroom door and I caught a glimpse of an upturned moustache beyond.

"But is he the chap we have to deal with? Won't the pearl be in the pursuer's keeping?"

Raffles stood at the door, frowning out upon the Salent, but for an instant he turned to me with a snarl.

"My good fellow, do you suppose the whole club's captain knows these? I'm like that about you. You said that it was worth £100,000 in Berlin they say it's priceless. I doubt if the skipper himself knows that Von Heumann has it on him."

"And he has?"

"Must have."

"Then we have only him to deal with?"

He answered me without a word. Something white was fluttering past once more, and Raffles, stepping forth, made the promenade three.

I do not ask to set foot aboard a finer steamship than the "Uhlana" of the Norddeutscher Lloyd, to meet a kinder gentleman than her then commander or better fellows than his officers. This much at least let me have the grace to admit—I hated the voyage. It was no fault of anybody connected with the ship; it was no fault of the weather, which was monotonously ideal. Not even in my own heart did the reason reside. Conscience and I were divorced at last and the decree made absolute. With my scruples had fled all fear, and I was ready to revel between bright skies and sparkling sea with the light hearted detachment of Raffles himself. It was Raffles himself who prevented me, but not Raffles alone. It was Raffles and that colonial mix on her way home from school.

What he could see in her—but that begs the question. Of course he saw no more than I did, but to annoy me, or perhaps to punish me for my long defection, he must turn his back on me and devote himself to this chit from Southampton to the Mediterranean. They were always together. It was too absurd. After breakfast they would begin and go on until 11 or 12 at night. There was no intervening hour at which you might not hear her nasal laugh or his quiet voice talking soft nonsense into her ear. Of course it was nonsense! Is it conceivable that a man like Raffles, with his knowledge of the world and his experience of women—a side of his character upon which I have purposely never touched, for it deserves another volume—is it credible, I ask, that such a man could find anything but nonsense to talk by the day together to a badly young schoolgirl? I would not be unfair for the world. I think I have admitted that the young person had points. Her eyes, I suppose, were really blue, and certainly the shape of the little brown face was charming, so far as mere contour can charm. I admit also more and more that I cared about, with enviable health, mettle and vitality. I may not have occasion to report any of this young lady's speeches (they would scarcely bear it), and am therefore the more anxious to describe her without injustice. I confess to some little prejudice against her. I resent her success with Raffles, of whom, in consequence, I saw less and less each day. It is a mean thing to have to confess, but there must have been something not unlike jealousy rankling within me.

Jealousy there was in another quarter—crude, rampant, undisciplined jealousy.

oney. Captain Von Heumann would curl his moustaches into twin spirals, shoot his white cuffs over his rings and stare at me insolently through his rimless eyeglasses. We ought to have consoled each other, but we never exchanged a syllable. The captain had a murderous scar across one of his cheeks, a present from Heidelberg, and I used to think how he must long to have Raffles there to serve the same. It was not as though Von Heumann never had his feelings. Raffles let him go in several times a day for the malicious pleasure of bowling him out as he was "getting set." Those were his words when I taxed him disingenuously with obnoxious conduct toward a German on a German boat.

"You'll make yourself disliked on board!"

"By Von Heumann merely."

"But is that wise when he's the man we've got to get next to?"

"The wisest thing I ever did. To have chummed up with him would have been fatal—the common dodge."

I was consoled, encouraged, almost content. I had feared Raffles was neglecting things, and I told him so in a burst. Here we were near Gibraltar, and not a word since the Solent. He shook his head with a smile.

"Plenty of time, Bun; plenty of time. We can do nothing before we get to Genoa, and that won't be till Sunday night. The voyage is still young and so are we. Let's make the most of things while we can."

It was after dinner on the promenade deck, and, as Raffles spoke, he glanced sharply fore and aft, leaving me next moment with a step full of purpose. I retired to the smoking room to smoke and read in a corner and to watch Von Heumann, who very soon came to drink beer and to sulk in a noisome.

Few travelers tempt the Red Sea at midsummer. The Uhlana was very empty indeed. She had, however, but a limited supply of cabins on the promenade deck, and there was just that excuse for my sharing Raffles' room. I could have had one to myself downstairs, but I must be up above. Raffles had insisted that I should insist on the point, so we were together, I think, without suspicion, though also without any object that I could see.

On the Sunday afternoon I was asleep in my berth—the lower one—when the curtains were shaken by Raffles, who was in his shirt sleeves on the settee.

"Achilles sulking in his bunk?"

"What else is there to do? I asked him as I stretched and yawned. I noted, however, the good humor of his one and did my best to catch it.

"I have found something else, Bun."

"I dare say?"

"You misunderstand me. The whippersnapper's making his century this afternoon. I've had other fish to fry."

I swung my legs over the side of my berth and sat forward, as he was sitting, all attention. The inner door, a grating, was shut and bolted and curtained like the open porthole.

"We shall be at Genoa before sunset," continued Raffles. "It's the place where the deed's got to be done."

"So you still mean to do it?"

"Did I ever say I didn't?"

"You have said so little either way."

"Advisedly so, my dear Bun. Why spoil a pleasure trip by talking unnecessary shop? But now the time has come. It must be done at Genoa or not at all."

"On land?"

"No, on board, tomorrow night. To-night would do, but tomorrow is better in case of mishap. If we were forced to use violence we could get away by the earliest train and nothing be known till the ship was sailing and Von Heumann found dead or drugged."

"Not dead?" I exclaimed.

"Of course not," assented Raffles. "For there would be no need for us to bolt. But, if we should have to bolt, Tuesday morning is our time, when this ship has got to sail whatever happens. But I don't anticipate any violence. Violence is a confession of terrible incompetence. In all these years how many blows have you known me to strike? Not one, I believe, but I have been quite ready to kill my man every time if the worst came to the worst."

I asked him how he proposed to enter Von Heumann's stateroom unobserved, and even through the curtained gloom of ours his face lighted up.

"Climb into my bunk, Bun, and you shall see."

I did so, but could see nothing. Raffles reached across me and tapped the ventilator, a sort of trapdoor in the wall above his head, some eighteen inches long and half that height. It opened outward into the ventilating shaft.

MAJOR MOSS

Died Suddenly While Playing a Game of Chess at Daughter's Home.

A letter from Capt. Wheat, son-in-law of the late Major Moss, to Mr. Jesse B. Moss, son of the deceased, now in Mississippi, gives the first details of Major Moss' death at Manila, which occurred at 2:30 p. m., Sept. 12.

Major Moss had been in bad health for some time, but was apparently no worse than he had been, in fact, appeared to be better and was sitting in the parlor of Capt. Wheat's home playing a game of chess with his son-in-law, with Mrs. Wheat and son a few feet away in the room.

Major Moss suddenly pitched forward, and was found to be dead when the others rushed to him. Four doctors called in at once gave it as their opinion that death was instantaneous.

The body was prepared for burial so it can be removed at any time, and temporarily buried at Manila. Dr. Tom Moss, who was on his way to Manila at the time, will bring the remains to Paducah for burial as soon as he can obtain leave of absence.

CAIRO FOOTBALL TEAM

Issues a Challenge to Paducah High School Team.

The Cairo High school football has issued challenge to the Paducah High school team for a game of football to be played at Cairo Saturday at the baseball grounds, but the fact that the grounds have not been secured is all that keeps the match from being consummated.

The Cairo team is anxious for a game with the locals and issued the challenge before it was known on the part of the managers of the teams to decline the match on, but it is expected something more definite will be known by tonight. If the game is arranged there will be a large crowd of High school pupils to go down and "root" for the Paducah team.

FIRE ALARM

TURNED IN AT THE I. C. SHOPS FOR A REAL FIRE.

The Shops Fire Department Was Prompt and Did Fine Work.

A practical test of the local I. C. shops private fire department was made yesterday and the members of the fire department made an excellent showing.

The run was made to the round house where an engine cab was on fire, and within three minutes after the big shop whistle had sounded the alarm, every member of the fire company from every department of the shops was on hand ready at a second's notice to fight fire.

Engine No. 633 which was sent here from the Cadiz road for a general overhauling was finished yesterday afternoon and fired up for a test. The weather curtain, which hangs from the back of the cab to keep out the cold air and coal dust engineer and firemen, caught fire and was ablaze instantly. The fire was immediately discovered and an alarm sent in.

The department answered quickly and extinguished the blaze without any amount of damage other than the loss of the curtain and a scorching to the paint on the cab. The officials were pleased with the creditable work of the private fire company. This was the first run where the firemen were really needed in some time.

Saved His Life.

J. W. Davenport, Wingo, Ky., writes, June 14, 1902: "I want to tell you I believe Ballard's Snow Liniment saved my life. I was under the treatment of two doctors and they told me one of my lungs was badly affected. I also had a lump on my side. I don't think that I could have lived over two months longer. I was induced by a friend to try Ballard's Snow Liniment. The first application gave me great relief; two fifty cent bottles cured me sound and well."

It is a wonderful medicine and I recommend it to suffering humanity. Sold by Alvey & List.

SHALL THE SECRET BALLOT BE ABOLISHED?

The Proposed Amendment.

"Section 147. The General Assembly shall provide by law for the registration of all persons entitled to vote in cities and towns having a population of 5,000 or more, and may provide by general law for the registration of other voters in the state. Where registration is required, only persons registered shall have the right to vote. The mode of registration shall be prescribed by the General Assembly, in all elections by persons in a representative capacity, the voting shall be viva voce and made a matter of record; and all elections by the people shall also be viva voce, and made a matter of public record by the officers of election, according to the direction of the voter. The word 'election' in this section includes the decision of questions submitted to voters, as well as the choice of officers by them. The first General Assembly held after the adoption of this amendment shall pass all necessary laws to enforce this provision."

"Section 2. This amendment shall be submitted to the voters of the state for their ratification or rejection at the time and in the manner provided for under Section 256 of the Constitution of Kentucky and under the provisions of the act May 12, 1897, being Section 1459 of the compilation of laws known and designated as the Kentucky Statutes."

NEW PLANS

Contemplated in Street Car Service By New Owners.

The Paducah City railway tracks on Kentucky avenue from Third to Fourth streets are torn up and the new company, Stone & Webster, are anxious to have them replaced, and are consequently anxious for the matter of the validity of the street contracts to be settled.

It is stated that the new company has some new ideas to work out in giving Paducah a perfect street car system and that this one block of track is essential to the success of the scheme. No plans for the improvements are given out, however, except that this piece of track will be necessary to complete the service the new company intends to install.

Mayor D. A. Yeiser suffered a great deal from rheumatism in the right arm last night and was forced to return home this morning, so severe did the pains become.

Mr. Bryan Opposes.

In 1896 Mr. W. J. Bryan delivered an address on Labor Day in the city of Chicago. In the course of that address he said:

"The ballot is the weapon by which the people of this country must right a legislative wrong. Whenever they lack intelligence and patriotism to right their wrongs at the ballot box they will be unable to right them in any other way."

"The ballot, to be effective, must be used, and conditions arose in this country which made it impossible for all the people to use the ballot which they had. Because of the circumstances which surrounded them, many men were afraid to exercise the political rights given to them under our institutions."

"What did they do? They demanded a reform in the ballot laws. I honor the laboring men of this country and the labor organizations which stand at the head of the wage-earning classes because they secured the Australian ballot for themselves and for the people at large."

"The ballot law did not come to the laboring men from the capitalistic classes. It came as a result of their own demands. The laboring men today enjoying the advantages of the Australian ballot because they compelled its adoption."

JIM SCOTT KILLED BY SWITCH ENGINE

Well-Known Veteran Railroader of Paducah Dies Under Wheels.

Went to Fulton Only Last Sunday to Work—Step of His Engine Pulled Off.

WIFE AND 4 CHILDREN HERE.

James S. Scott, a switchman employed in the Fulton yards of the I. C., and one of the best known and most popular railroad men in this end of the state, was accidentally killed under the wheels of his engine at 10:30 o'clock last night at Fulton, while switching coaches in the yards. The accident happened so quickly that those near him were powerless to render assistance, and were forced to stand by and see the unfortunate switchman ground to death beneath the wheels.

Scott left Paducah Sunday to work in Fulton, leaving his family here. He had been working in the local I. C. yards as switchman for the past six months, and securing a better position in Fulton went down to work. He intended taking his family to Fulton later on, in a week or two.

Last night Scott was switching several coaches into sidings and was standing on the back step of his engine. The engine was backing up to couple on to a coach. The air hose, which hangs down from near the draw head, caught in a frog and pulled off the step, on which the unfortunate switchman was standing, precipitating him to the ground. He had no time to escape the engine and was knocked down and run over, the wheels of the tender and engine passing over his body, before the big machine could be stopped.

Death was instantaneous, and although several companions stood within a few feet of the unfortunate railroader when he fell, they were unable to do anything further than signal the engineer to stop.

The deceased was born in Dikab, Kemper county, Mississippi, and was 47 years of age. He had been a resident of Paducah for nearly thirty years, being an employee of the old C. O. & S. W. road, and of the N. M. & M. V. road, later of the I. C., when the latter road leased the other. He was a member of the Brotherhood of Railway Conductors, and ran out of Paducah in the capacity of a conductor for several years. Later he was offered the position of yardmaster for the N. C. & St. L. road here which he accepted and held for several years, resigning six months ago to work for the I. C. road.

Scott worked here for the latter road until last Sunday when he went to Fulton. He was a popular and widely known railroader and the news of his death came as a shocking surprise to his many friends and relatives. He leaves a wife and four children, three boys and one girl. He also leaves five brothers, one, M. C. C. Scott, a jeweler and ex-railroader, who at present keeps a jewelry store on Kentucky avenue, residing here.

The remains were brought to Paducah this morning at 11:20 o'clock on train No. 102 and will probably be shipped to Murray for interment, the funeral arrangements not yet having been made.

Youth Apparently Under the Influence of Drug, Arrested.

Thomas Oliver Hill is the name of a young white boy who ran into the city hall this morning about 10:30 o'clock in a half crazed condition, apparently from drink, and gave himself up for alleged petty larceny.

The boy is said to be from everywhere, lately from Little Rock, Ark., and is charged by J. S. Downs, the marble dealer, with having stolen his razor last night. The boy talked very incoherently and will be held pending an investigation. He ran into the hall and surrendered because he heard he was wanted, and did not desire to give the police any extra trouble on his account, he said.
